- With the EVO you were there.
- The EVO added new sonic dimensions of realism.
- The EVO offered a better balance of bass tones.
- The EVO had a better take on midrange detail offering the ear an extended dynamic reach.
- The result was a greater tonal realism that you don't hear on a lower cost turntable.
- The soundstage of the EVO was more open and airy.
- I actually felt the EVO produced a better balance overall.
- The EVO rocked – and rocked efficiently – but also with plenty of emotion.
- If you're looking for a turntable up to and including £500 the first name on your list should be a Pro-Ject Debut EVO.
